

THE TRIED AND TESTED VACUUM CLEANERS

With so many choices for vacuum cleaners, deciding on the best one can be a difficult task. Here are some factors for finding a very attractive one:

The most important factors include price, suction power, and versatility. Also start with comparing and determining which type of vacuum you are looking for.

Price is a vital factor in determining the overall value of a vacuum cleaner, but a low price does not always mean that you are getting the best value for your money.

The ease of use and the ability to cut housecleaning chores down in time can make a higher priced vacuum better overall value.

One of the best vacuum cleaners that are practical and very functional comes with a HEPA filter and coupled with a 3 stage dust trap system for the ultimate clean. It can clean up your carpet that has seven various adjustments on the brush bar system. Also has a 30 foot cord for long distance cleaning; a 15 inch brush bar for a larger and more efficient cleaning path. There is the stretch hose for attachment can be easily manipulated to 5 times its original length which makes overhead cleaning and grabbing the dust bunnies from behind furniture a breeze. The bare floor brush allows for gentle but more effective cleaning than suction alone even on finished hardwood floors. This one is price for $150. a good value

Other vacuums have certified asthma and allergy friendly makes it a great pick for cleaner home air, a bag less canister vacuum. Other than those that I mentioned, they don't have a lot of differences. So choose what the best for your money.
